

Introduction to Pronouns

What are pronouns?

Pronouns such as she/her, he/him and they/them are commonly used as a way for a person to share their gender identity.

Some people will introduce themselves with their name and their pronouns.

For example, someone may say "Hi my name is Shivani. My pronouns are she/her."

© 2021 Autism Nova Scotia 1/7

References: Autism Nova Scotia (2021). Healthy Relationships, Sexuality, and Autism Curriculum; Corinna, H. (2016). S.E.X: The all-you-need-to-know Sexuality guide to get you through your teens and twenties. essay, Da Capo Lifelong Books

Introduction to Pronouns

Why are pronouns important?

Learning about pronouns is important because it helps to create safer spaces for everyone to express their gender.

Using the wrong pronouns for a person whether it is on purpose or not, can be disrespectful and hurtful to that person.

It is important to never assume someone's gender or their pronouns. Even if a person appears as a particular gender, you don't know a person's pronouns until they tell you.

© 2021 Autism Nova Scotia 2/7

Introduction to Pronouns

When you do not know someone's pronouns

If you don't know someone's pronouns, refer to that person by using their name or gender-neutral pronouns, such as "they" until you ask them their pronouns.

Not everyone is comfortable with they/them pronouns for various reasons so it is best to ask the person what pronouns they use. Even if you have already met but still are not sure what pronouns the person uses.

How to ask someone what their pronouns are

© 2021 Autism Nova Scotia 3/7

Introduction to Pronouns Ways to introduce yourself with your pronouns

"Hey! I'm Sarah, I go by they/them. What are your pronouns?"

"Hey! I'm Jo and my pronouns are he/him"

Ways to ask someone for their pronouns

"Can I ask what pronouns you use?"

"Thank you for asking. I use he/they. What are your pronouns?"

© 2021 Autism Nova Scotia 4/7

References: Autism Nova Scotia. (2021). Healthy Relationships, Sexuality, and Autism Curriculum; Corinna, H. (2016). S.E.X: The all-you-need-toknow Sexuality guide to get you through your teens and twenties. essay, Da Capo Lifelong Books

Introduction to Pronouns What to do when we make mistakes?

If you use the wrong pronouns for someone by mistake, it's okay. The best thing to do is to quickly correct yourself by using the person's correct pronouns and move on.

What time did she say? -- Oops, what time did they say?

What to do when others make mistakes?

If you notice someone you know use the wrong pronouns, you can quickly correct them. It's important to remember sometimes people make mistakes, so when we correct people we should be kind if it was an honest mistake the person made.

" What time did Sarah say she was meeting us at the movies?"

"Sarah's pronouns are they/them."

"Oops. Thank you. What time did they say they were meeting us at the movies?"

© 2021 Autism Nova Scotia 5/7

References: Autism Nova Scotia. (2021). Healthy Relationships, Sexuality, and Autism Curriculum; Corinna, H. (2016). S.E.X: The all-you-need-toknow Sexuality guide to get you through your teens and twenties. essay, Da Capo Lifelong Books

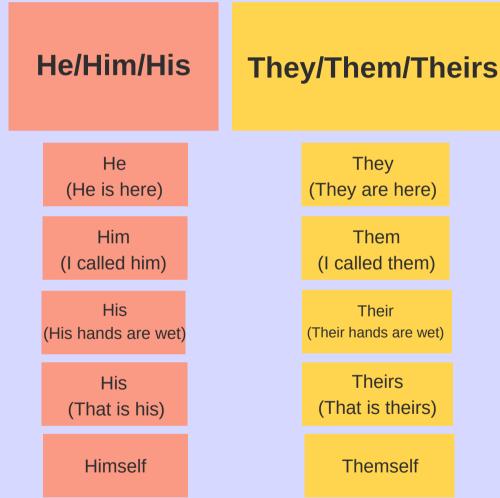

Introduction to Pronouns Examples of pronouns people may use:

These are some examples of pronouns people may use. There are many other pronouns that are not listed here.

She/Her/Her	rs
She (She is here)
Her (I called her)
Her (Her hands are wet)
Hers (That is hers)
Herself

If you are unsure how to use someone's pronouns in a sentence, you can ask them how to correctly use and say their pronouns.

© 2021 Autism Nova Scotia

6/7

Introduction to Pronouns Gender neutral terms to use for a group

Friends

Lovelies

Everyone

Folks

Humans

People

Beautiful People

Movers and Shakers

Team

Pals

Family

Amazing People

© 2021 Autism Nova Scotia

7/7

References: Autism Nova Scotia. (2021). Healthy Relationships, Sexuality, and Autism Curriculum; Corinna, H. (2016). S.E.X: The all-you-need-to-know Sexuality guide to get you through your teens and twenties. essay, Da Capo Lifelong Books